The Choice for Fine Tuned Performance

First developed in the early 70s as the original tuneable exhaust system, the SuperTrapp disc design has evolved into the industry standard for disc exhaust systems. The power of the disc allows you to adjust the sound level, power band and performance of your motorcycle.

SuperTrapp's exhaust outlet is formed by a precise gap between a series of individual diffuser discs. By adding discs, you increase the size of the exhaust outlet. That means an increase in exhaust tone, a reduction in back pressure, and an increase of exhaust flow. Removing discs decreases the outlet size, which simply reverses the effects of adding discs. The SuperTrapp Disc System also enables you to fine tune the air/fuel ratio. When it comes to exhaust versatility, you make the rules with SuperTrapp.

When you play by your own rules, you've got what it takes to ride a Harley. You've also got what it takes to slip on a SuperTrapp performance exhaust system. For over 30 years, a hell of a lot of you have done just that. Maybe that's because Harley riders and SuperTrapp have a whole lot of attitude in common.

From the beginning, we've done things our own way, as well. That pioneering attitude led to the development of the industry's first tuneable exhaust system. For power, sound and style, nobody could beat it then. Nobody beats it now.
